(a) No, we could look at the actual proportion for population if we had the entire FEC dataset.

(b) Yes, one sample might not reflect the entire population, so bootstrap sampling is required for certain confidence interval.

(c) Yes, for the same reason as (b), one sample showing the difference as 0 might just be an outlier.